

GIS in Urban Planning

A Half-Day CPD Workshop Co-organised by:

Hong Kong Geographic Information Systems Association
Geographical/Land Information Systems Research Centre, The University of Hong Kong

About the CPD Workshop

GIS has been used in urban planning in Hong Kong for over 10 years now. Many cities in China are also using GIS in urban planning. This half-day CPD workshop will examine current developments in the use of GIS as a planning support system (PSS) in Hong Kong and China, as well as their future developments.

The workshop is for government officials, architects, planners, engineers, surveyors, managers and professionals in land development, public utility companies, consultants, and anyone interested in GIS development.

Date: 5 December 2002 (Thursday)

Time: 14:00-17:50

Venue: Convocation Room, Room 218, 2/F, Main Building, The University of Hong Kong

Cost: Free for HKGISA member (HK$25 for CPD certificate)
